Word of Life

"Many people know someone personally who is suffering because of an abortion. If a friend confided in you tomorrow that she had an abortion, would you be able to respond in a way that brings her closer to healing? ... Even a woman who doesn't go to church think of herself as religious can be afraid that God will never forgive her for having an abortion. She should know that God loves and forgives those who are sorrowful. He wants to comfort them and give them his peace."

Just a bit from Fr. Schmidt

"Peace, Peace" When There Is No Peace

I almost have to laugh—if it weren't so sad that many actually believe this—when people say we live in one of the most peaceful times in human history. Of course on the surface, the world does seem relatively peaceful today, especially in contrast to the many armed conflicts of antiquity and the more recent world wars of the 20th century. But peace is not merely the absence of war.

As long as close to a million innocent human lives are snuffed out each year since 1973, in our country alone—through what many still call "reproductive rights," "healthcare," and "choice"—there cannot be peace. We really live among the most violent and barbaric periods of all time. And the fact that so many do not even recognize this as violence only adds to the horror.

I often wonder how many classmates were "missing" as I went through school, how many friends I never had a chance to meet simply because they were never given a chance at life. How many of those lives lost would have been with me in seminary, serving as priests today? Or sustaining the world by their prayers and work as religious monks or sisters? St. Teresa of Calcutta is often quoted, saying, "It is a poverty to decide that a child must die so that you may live as you wish."

I've always been highly suspect of efforts to paint every issue as a "life issue," because this inevitably downplays the gravity and scale of abortions that take place not only in our country but throughout the world. Environmentalism, immigration, and even capital punishment are simply not cases—in principle—of the direct and intentional killing of clearly innocent human life. The possibility that innocent people can be executed in the case of the death penalty is a greater indictment of our justice system than of capital punishment itself. And the number of executions carried out each year is not at all comparable to the number of abortions.

Euthanasia or assisted suicide is the most closely related as it also consists of intentionally killing innocent human life. We continue to pray for an end to abortion and every attack on the sanctity of human life. We also pray for all women who have undergone abortions—often finding themselves sorely lacking in the support they would need as mothers—that they would experience God's boundless mercy in the Sacrament of Confession and begin healing. We pray especially for those currently considering such a "choice," that God and the people around them would help them see that there are many other—and much better—options.
