A Home Mission Appeal,
April 24-May 1, envelope is located in your offering envelope box or there are extra offering envelopes in the vestibule area of our churches. Today nearly 40% of dioceses in the United States and its territories are unable to fund the essential pastoral work their communities need. Your support of this appeal helps them meet these faith formation and sacramental needs. Please prayerfully consider how you can support his appeal. The Diocese of Rapid City South Dakota is one of the nearby recipients of the Home Mission Appeal.

A big thank you to everyone who attended the Volunteer Appreciation Brunch last Sunday. It takes many hands to keep the parish running and all are greatly appreciated! There's a sign-up sheet for different tasks around the parish, if you can help please take a look and sign up. The sign-up sheets will be downstairs during our First Holy Communion reception after Mass on Sun, May 1 and in the church entryway after that. Thank you!

Pope Francis' Prayer Intentions for May
Faith-Filled Young People

We pray for all young people, called to live life to the fullest; may they see in Mary's life the way to listen, the depth of discernment, the courage that faith generates, and the dedication to service.

Spirit Blows Where He Wills

I've been thinking about wind lately. You'll never guess why. At Masses during this past week, we had the conversation between Jesus and Nicodemus from the Gospel according to St. John. When Jesus talks about the Holy Spirit, He often uses the image of wind or breath. Just like English does today, many ancient languages had what are known as homonyms, one word that can be used to mean several different things. The New Testament was written in Greek, and the Greek word for spirit is pneuma, which can also mean breath or wind. The English words pneumatic and pneumonia come from this Greek root. There are similarly versatile homonyms in Hebrew and Aramaic, which may be more likely the language Jesus was speaking with Nicodemus, that John then translated into Greek for his readers.

If you know a bit about what causes the wind to blow or what allows us to breathe with our lungs, you know that the flow of air ultimately stems from differences in air pressure. Wind is basically a convection current that forms between an area of high pressure—where cooler air tends downward—and an area of low pressure, often caused by the rays of the sun heating the surface of the earth and the air above it, making it rise.

These differences in pressure and temperature stem from the different properties of what receives the sun's rays. The water of lakes, rivers, and oceans holds more energy and so heats or cools more gradually than most other surfaces. Ground covered with plants also heats/cools more gradually than bare asphalt. For breathing, our diaphragm causes our lungs to expand, lowering the air pressure inside them and causing air to rush in from the higher air pressure that then surrounds us. The movement of air in breathing and in the wind is nature's attempt to restore equilibrium between two extremes. It's just too bad we're so often caught in the middle.

But wind isn't all bad, and our every breath is dependent on the same process of air's tendency to move from high pressure to low pressure. Jesus found the energy, power, freedom, and life-giving properties of wind and breath to be an apt description of the Holy Spirit's role in bringing spiritual life to our souls. May the Holy Spirit always bring the peace and equilibrium of God into our hearts and minds amid the highs and lows of this passing life, that our every breath, word, and action may be for the glory of God and salvation of souls.
